Loyola Social Work Disaster Management Activities 2018-2020

Introduction

Loyola Social Works engagement with disaster management was spontaneous and head-on. The department was driven by the students. Their daringness pull me into the vortex and over the years we have been able to pioneer various activities in the most needed of times. The below given is a description of Loyola Social Work's engagement with disaster management.

Context

The 3rd Kerala Social Work Congress was held at Loyola 7-9 August. Post the 3rd KSWC the students responded spontaneously trying to mobilise materials. The college mobilised money from their end - personal funds, management funds as well as public. This was used to mobilise materials stated above. There was tremendous the support of alumni and SALT (AKSSA) mostly from batch of 2017-2019. The entire activities could be listed under various Phases-I-VI listed below:

Phase-I Collection of Relief Materials

The first was a spontaneous response on 15 August. Students were in the streets and neighbourhoods requesting support by way of money and materials. There was an understanding at the outset that old materials (likely to be dumped) be avoided. The materials procured included: – fresh cloths (use cloths being ruled out), rice and pulses, non-perishable bakery eats (biscuits rusk), water bottles, sanitary napkins, soap- bathing and washing, emergency medicines – Dettol, paracetamol, chlorophenaramine maleate, disinfectants, etc. The materials collected were trucked or taken by personal vehicles to the Govt. SMV Higher Secondary School, the first major collection centre.

This phase continued in a transient mode all through to September 5 and beyond when our social work trainee volunteers and alumni mobilised materials from all over. There was almost 3 containers of relief materials despatched from Qatar, Kuwait and Bahrain and another two from Haryana and Punjab mobilised with the estimated worth of Rs. 86lac. We also mobilised medicines especially.

Phase-II Taking up voluntary work at Collection centers.

The first group on delivering the materials were amazed to see the enthusiasm of youth working spontaneously evolving systems. Placards were waved at city buses showing urgent requirements. Vehicles with supplies were met at the gate and directed to offloading teams where the materials were systematically recorded dismantled and taken for sorting, all in the matter of 3-4 minutes allowing the vehicle to leave and the next loads to come on.

The trainees was invited by the Volunteers to join the Collection Center and assist in the collection, sorting and despatch operations. These were the various Collection Points, the Loyola Social Work trainees and others from the college manned in the next few days:

1. Trivandrum Social Service Society, Archbishop's House, Vellayambalam, Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala 695003
2. Government Engineering College, Barton Hill, Kunnukuzhy, Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala 695035
3. Trivandrum Corporation Office, Opposite LMS Compound, PMG, Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala 695033
4. SMV Govt Model Higher Secondary School, Overbridge, Santhi Nagar, Thampanoor, Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala 695001

Phase-III – Training of Volunteers in PFA and Psycho-social Care (16-17 August)

Loyola Social Work had a visiting team of Psychologists from University of Barcelona, Spain as part of a collaboration to do study on 'Violence against Children'. The members volunteered to organise an International Symposium of Disaster Psychosocial Care in collaboration with Grevia, Barcelona University Spain (17 August 2017). Volunteers from Social Work and Counselling Psychology participated in the three hour workshop.

Loyola Social Work in association with Street Heroes on India and Olga Martin organised a Workshop on "Psychosocial Care during Disasters" by Team GREVIA of Barcelona University, Espaniola preparing volunteers for field intervention and trauma counselling during #KeralaFloods18. The trainees included students from Department of Counselling and Social Work. The content discussed included psychological first aid (PFA), active listening and "dos and don'ts".

Besides the department also collaborated in follow-up by supporting "Psychosocial Support Care for Trauma of children and families affected by the Kerala Floods 2018 in collaboration with TITHE, an NGO based in UK.

Phase-IV Collaborating with Department of Women and Child Development (GoK) and BluePoint (18-21 August)

Six volunteers from MSW-2019 batch volunteered to compile a list of social science graduates – mostly from the disciplines of Sociology, Social Work and Psychology. The group volunteered to call individually and recruit members as volunteers for Psychosocial Care. By day 5 they had clocked enough calls, saturated and compiled a list of almost 5600 willing volunteers. What surprised them was the willingness of the candidates attend to calls even as late as 11pm and comply with the urgent calls. From this a list of 1400 was finalised (100 per district). The list was supplied through the WCD to the various district HQs. By the 7th day training programs in collaboration with NIMHANS was organised in various district HQs.

Our students also attended the training programs as organisers and participants at Pathanamthitta HQ, Alappuzha HQ and joined various C

Phase-V Working in Camps

The group eventually instructed the recruits and referred them for training at the various District HQs under the guidance of NIMHANS.

The group of trainees began their work area wise basing themselves from the Chengannur Taluk Hosptial. They worked in the surrounding areas of Chengannur especially Pandanad and Budhanoor. The team eventually spread their wings to Alappuzha AC Road where they hired a house and operated from the new found base reducing substantially the need for travel. There were review meetings with BluePoint and supervision from the Directorate of Child Welfare Volunteer Team. The latter was reportedly sometimes problematic given their lack of experience but the need to control the team.

Subsequent to coordinating the training programs, the Team Loyola left their coordinating positions to man various Camps. The group of students of Semester-1 under the leadership of Dr.Sonny worked in Camps in the flood ravaged areas of Pathanamthitta (Chengannur, Budhanoor, Pandanad, etc.), Alappuzha (AC Road, Kayamkulam, Kanichakulangara and Kainakary) and Ernakulam (Kuttampuzha) from 16 August to 5 September 2018.

The team from Loyola Trivandrum was instrumental in the Kerala Floods in that they stayed their grounds in various camps all over the above mentioned regions in spite of the hostile and unpredictable emerging scenarios, undertaking site visits, collecting data for WCD, reaching relief supplies and essential medicines, besides engaging the camp residents and especially children by way of social group work in recreational groups and supporting the community kitchens. Besides the Scholars supported the activities and mobilized materials worth Rs.89 lac from benevolent persons in Qatar, Kuwait and even Punjab & Haryana. The group also mobilized potable drinking water and 5000 doxycycline tabs sourced from the representatives of IMA- Kottayam through Dr.Thomas P. George.

Locating and Follow-up

Shilpa Raj, Nisha Saju and some IT-professionals based in Kochi, Kollam and Nagercoil continued to watch the news on various channels reporting live. They documented on Excel a database of persons, locations and mobile numbers and started compiling geo-positioning in collaboration with IT professionals in Technopark. The list was made on googledocs permitting intimating the Disaster War Room follow-up about locations. The followup was a model for DISHA.

Pandanad & Budhanoor Action Research - 30 September 2018

Subsequent to the outreach at Kainakary, some of the group members pursued to visit the most affected areas in suburban Chengannur: Budhanoor and Pandanad. The team members visited various households, sourced water from their wells for testing as well as administered the interview guide with children and mothers of infants.

Phase- VI UNICEF-directed Intervention Kainakary Action Research Intervention 29 August

As a next phase Dr. Sonny Jose proposed a site visit and intervention at Kainakary one of the worst affected areas. Team Loyola eventually associated with the Department of Social Work, Assumption College headed by Sr. Shalini CMC and their senior students, to undertake an intervention based evaluation study (action research) in Kainakary, being unique as the most-affected area during the Kerala Floods 2018. The axis was strategic as we got entry through the CMC Congregation run Holy Family Girls High School, Kainakary, which was selected as the venue, besides the St. Mary's Church auditorium where the Sunday School gathered.

As part of data collection the joint teams conducted extensive and in-depth interactions was done utilizing various PRA Tools as projective techniques to help them overcome their trauma. They were asked to 'play' with paint to generate Rorschach Inkblots and asked to talk about it. After discussions they were asked to paint/draw on their aspirations for the year ahead.

KAPS was represented by Benoy Kattayil Vice President KAPS and Adv. Jaison Abraham who visited the site. The Team worked as per plans developed on an initial survey by Sonny and Salini. The activity brought out pictorially the students' stress and perhaps relieved them of their internal pain.

Waynad Flood Relief by SALT

17 Aug MSW Semester 1 students under the banner of NSS Unit 21-A (apologies for limiting to SALT; standing corrected) organised a collection drive and mobilised Rs. 63,670 in 7 hours. We organised materials for the money collected and handed over relief materials to flood affected areas in Wayanad through Aanavandi.com by 7.30 pm at Kottarakkara...special congratulations to the motivated team driven by Anavandi Ananthu BL, Jones James, Arsha V., Varsha and who organised things and mobilised materials and money against all odds ...it was also great learning considering the general air of suspicion and hostilities encountered.

Nov 7 Sonny Jose attended meeting to joining the foray of various NGOs under Sphere India. Had a meeting with various government officials under the leadership of Mr. Anu S. Nair India (Deputy Collector) (MSW 2003-'05), Vijeesh (State Coordinator- Sphere India) and Vyshnavi V. K. (District Coordinator- Sphere India; MSW 2012-'14) at District Disaster Management Authority meeting the Civil Station (07. Nov. 2019).

Lessons:

There was a spurt of volunteership from among the participants; the subsequent events found them volunteering with their might.

Disaster & Flood Relief Supplies to Wards I& XIV Ottamasserry Fishing Village, Coastal Alappuzha

Context

There was continuous rains from June to August besides the impact of the COVID pandemic in Coastal Alappuzha, the worst hit being Chellanam and the adjacent Ottamasseri. Chellanam had received media coverage and support from various NGOs. We were convinced that Ottamasseri needed help given the domicile and understanding of Ms. Anna George Kurishinkal (MSW Sem-2) about the village. Anna engaged 8 youth and auto-drivers, besides 2 ASHA workers - Mrs. Suma Titto (9074680381) & Mrs. Ancy George (9249775080) for supplying relief during the period 5-11 August 2020.

Planning to Implementation

The late Monsoon in August coupled with the ravage of the COVID-19 Pandemic had left the Coastal Communities in abject poverty due to lack of work starting with the Monsoons in June and the trawling ban.

Anna being a member of the community witnessed first-hand this misery and discussed with her fieldwork supervisor and Mentor. She was advised to undertake a need assessment survey initially. It was found that a most of the had not received any kit; some had only groceries that they did not need. Hence, she zeroed down on an inventory of groceries that would be necessary, replacing coffee by tea, palm oil by coconut oil, adding chickpeas, brown gram, etc. In the meanwhile, the mentor negotiated with Fr. Ronnie Maliekkal of Lourdes Matha Care who put him into contact with Philip Kuriakose. With the mentor mobilising Rs.30000, Mr. Philip agreed to transfer Rs.45000 to her account.

Anna contacted the local ASHAs of ward I & IV of Kadakkarappally panchayath and generated a list of needy by the 2 ASHA Workers – Mrs. Suma Titto (9074680381) & Mrs. Ancy George (9249775080). Anna in the meanwhile negotiated with a local wholesale dealer who agreed to supply her with the bulk. The same was repacked in a local church hall. Anna procured face shields, gloves and sanitisers. She along with the local ASHAs planned the logistics and trained 8 volunteers in basic hygiene including wear of PPE Kits.

On the said day they distributed 33 kits from afternoon till 2pm and by evening were able to reach all the kits to all the remaining 87 families and those who were unreachable were asked to contact the local ASHAs with whom she had left the kits as per the list. Anna was able to strictly go by the list we had compiled as well as compile a few photos (attached for proof)

Evaluation

The Relief Mission has accomplished with a lot of genuine support from the public and the ASHA Workers. One of the "Autochettanmaar" refused to take the rental for the 5hours he spent with Anna executing door delivery. Four kits were not delivered because the family was taken away on quarantine; the same will be redistributed to someone deserving apart from the list.

There were two beautiful twists to this endeavour- (1) She had provided sessions to train the youth volunteers regarding hygiene and readied them for exams by providing them necessary Exam Preparedness sessions; (2) each of the kit had a surprise letter expressing solidarity from friends from Thiruvananthapuram naming 'Ottaikalla Ottamasserry'. 2021

Given the limitations imposed by the college especially with regard to field work the Department limited its activities primarily to coordinating the on-line services throughout May to August 2021. The two engagements were primarily the KCBC and DHMP Helplines for remote counselling. The primary activities engaged with were follow-up of COVID-positive as well as those who had been quarantined by the Government Department. The following were the list of students engaged:

MSW & DM Semester-1 Student Details

Many of the students limited their work to their own domiciles; for instance those in Idukki did tremendous work- Libin continued to mobilise kits for the elderly and the infirm, recruited volunteers to gather kits and educational kits in tribal hamlet; Vinayak assisted the FHC in vaccine campaign; Angel did group work with children in the community; Sreelekshmi joined QSSS in Kollam to support their field work; Gouri supported her PHC in the vaccine campaign in Ooruttambalam, etc. Those who supported DMHP clocked anywhere between 425 to 670 calls for follow-up as well as Psychosocial Care Support.

Introspection

Loyola Social Works engagement and scaling up as well as adaptation of activities are in a context. In 2018 it was basically spontaneous when the learners and one of the faculty members got involved in the UNICEF/KAPS or WCD/BluePoint intervention. The magnitude of personal funds mobilised by a faculty worth Rs.79,000. But the net effect could be measured in the following extent:

Cost-benefit Analysis

We undertook a cost-benefit analysis of our investment into this opportunity and enterprise versus the benefits. The following were the expenditure incurred during Phases- III, IV, V, VI, met from private funds of a faculty member:

1. Consultancy (UNICEF Voices of Children study) involving Jacqueline Fernandez (TISS), Jasmine Alexander in tool development as well as designing training module= Rs.15,000
 2. Sponsoring University of Barcelona (food and hotel accommodation prior to LES accommodation) besides paying for translators – Babitha, Anitha and Krishnendu= Rs.25000
 3. Supporting Travel, Site Visit and Camp Support into manpower support for 44* social work trainees, research scholars and alumni during Phase-VI= Rs.63,000
- Total Funds Mobilised: Rs.1,03,000

The valuation of services provided:

1. Relief Materials Mobilised by SALT (prior to the WCD engagement) = Rs.1,15,000
 2. 1107 volunteers recruited for average 9 days between 22 August and 5 September (@Rs.1000) = $1107 \times 9 \times 1000 = 99,63,000$ (~Rs.1crore)
 3. Materials Mobilised from Qatar/Kuwait/Bahrain & Haryana & Punjab = Rs.82,00,000. **
- Value of total Services provided= Rs.1,82,78,000 (~ approximately Rs.1.82Crores)

Economics and public good apart, it has transformed a group of students spanning three batches of social workers and social work trainees – MSW-2017, MSW 2018 and MSW-2019 – directly, future-readying them for volunteerism as well as daringness to face any eventuality thrown at them.

Flood Relief Activity Report – 2018

Kerala faced one of the biggest flood calamities during 2018 as a result of the unusually severe south west monsoon during which all the districts of Kerala were put to high alert, many lost lives and many were displaced. The unexpected natural calamity even though created havoc, the support systems including mental health care and counselling services were strong enough to help people to face and overcome the difficult time. The staff and students of the department of counselling psychology were also involved with the support system offered by the government of Kerala as well as the NGOs. A few students of the department – Mr Abhishek was involved with real-time rescue operations at Kollam district – (helping people to move to safer places). A few students were working at call centres of flood relief – Ms Anagha Suresh, Aswathy Chandran & Mrs Nisha at Alapuzha district). Students were also involved in medical supply services (Mrs Nisha) as well as counselling services. Initially the students were given orientation at the college/ departmental level, to motivate them to involve themselves with the flood relief activities. All those students who volunteered were given privileges to go ahead with the process on their own as well as by collaborating with governmental and NG organizations. Many students of the department are involved with counselling services at their own locality. The staff members provided enough support and supervision for those students who did counselling services. Dr Pramod was involved with rescue operations at a flood affected area of Trivandrum district as well as worked at a collection centre.

The whole activities of the flood relief conducted by the department continued during the post flood times offering counselling support at highly flood affected areas of Alapuzha.

FLOOD RELIEF REPORT

Date: 11-09-2018 to 14-09-2018

Place: Ayroor Panchayat, Thrissur Dist, Kerala and Loyola Colony, Mudrapadam, Kalamassery Municipality, Ernakulam Dist.

Participants: Dr. Angelo Mathew and 13 IInd semester HRM Students

Major Activities Done:

- On the initial day student volunteers and the accompanying faculty had to undergo 4 hours of trauma counselling training at the ICT academy, Kalamassery, Kochi.

The modules include (1) Fundamentals of Counselling (2) Methods of Diagnosis and procedure of trauma in human beings (3) Initiating trauma counselling and guidance (4) Practical orientation on psycho-social counselling and how to interact with the flood victims.

- Sessions were handled by Rev Fr. Wilson and Rev.Fr. Ephrem Thomas SJ
- Second day team had interacted with many (around 200) flood affected families attended the medical camp organised under the supervision of the local parish inaugurated by Shri. Roji John the MLA of the locality. It had targeted families suffering from various ailments post flood. There were three medical practitioners (Two Allopathic physicians and a homeopathic physician) in addition to 5 nurses and two pharmacists were present. Certain medicines were supplied for free to the patients.
- The team could build rapport with most of families/members that were severely affected by the flood.
- The volunteers were able to detect symptoms of distress and depression and provided primary counselling for the people who were in need of immediate care.

- Third day the team was divided into Four sub teams and were deputed for a field visit cum interaction to the designated flood affected geographic area. The student volunteers divided themselves and conducted house visits in the major affected wards of Ayroor panchayat and gathered data pertaining to mental trauma in particular.

Activities in Detail:

The students were divided into two groups in which one group was assigned to take up the psycho-social counselling programme at Loyola Colony, Mudrapadam and the rest of them were given Ayroor Panchayat for the same. The student volunteers meticulously worked in the field and could conduct around 50 house visits and were able to successfully render psycho-social counselling interventions to the flood affected victims effectively. The students were also able to identify the vulnerable and affected families and who are in need of both financial and psychological aid. Based on the survey conducted, more details about the household respondents, major losses incurred, major symptoms of psycho social trauma found, member profile, and immediate necessities to be provided if any? Etc was found. Survey helped to prepare a detailed report about the programme as well as the details of the beneficiaries who are in need of immediate financial and psychological care and could refer them to further psychological interventions.

Major Observations:

- A positive attitude was shown by most of the families who were affected with the flood, though it may take longer years to regain and normalise life.
- Small number of families found to be hopeless and not shown any positive outlook to continue their lives mainly due to the poor state income and infrastructure.
- Few people reported that they have fear of being affected again. Fear and trauma was detected and reported among children those who were severely affected.

- Lack of unity was found among some of the people after the calamity especially in helping each other with resources sharing.
- With the help of emphatic listening the students were able to make the flood victims ventilate their problems.
- Many deserving cases were identified who are in need of financial and psychological support. The students were also able to provide some therapeutic interventions among the flood affected people.
- In some cases, people felt hopeless and there was loss of spirituality or faith due to the flood.
- The people of Ayroor was very welcoming and showing acceptance towards the student volunteers. Where the people of Mudrapadam had difference in approach possible due to city life and culture of the colony or the place.
- Students observed that few families were not able to cop up with the situation and still they continue in a state of trauma.
- Students realised that even though financial assistance is needed more emphasis should be given to psychological aspects of the affected people.
- It was also seen the emphatic listening shown by the student volunteers was very useful in ventilating and open-up the agonies and

Area of operation	households covered	number of cases found financially vulnerable	number of cases found psychologically vulnerable
➤ Ayroor	➤ 84	➤ 16	➤ 35
➤ Mudrapadam	➤ 31	➤ 12	➤ 9

The learning and take away for students which we shared during the evaluation

Understood how empathy may be practiced

Learned to listen to people in distress

Understood the basics of counselling

Have learned to initiate and carry out social survey in a disaster setting in a formal way.

Could reflect on ways to stay contented amidst adds.
